ALRA is a private small and specialist provider with a 40-year track record in the delivery of conservatoire arts education. Our graduates gain employment in the theatre, TV and film industries, going on to develop successful careers in diverse ways in the UK and internationally.

The governing body and senior authority of ALRA is the Board of Trustees. The Trustees are directors of ALRA for the purposes of company law. They are legally responsible for corporate governance and for the overall management and control of the charity, and they meet on average three times a year. The Trustees are accountable to the Charity Commission and the Office for Students, and they hold the Principal and Academic Board to account for their respective remits.

The Board provides direction and stewardship for the Academy of Live & Recorded Arts for the benefit of past, current and future students, by:

- Setting the vision, mission and values of ALRA
- Developing strategy to achieve the charity's objects and monitoring and communicating performance
- Ensuring that the charity seeks the views of past, current and future students and that these views are considered in developing strategy and delivering services
- Acting as the guardians of the charity's assets, both tangible and intangible, taking all due care over their security, deployment and proper application
- Ensuring that ALRA complies with all constitutional, legal and regulatory requirements
- Ensuring that the charity's governance is of the highest possible standard
- Ensuring statutory and regulatory compliance
